

Chinatown Health Clinic Foundation

Annual Report 2013

Dear Friends:

I cannot begin to thank you enough for supporting the Chinatown Health Clinic Foundation. Your generosity ensured that Asian Americans and other vulnerable individuals receive critically needed health, education and social support services.

In 2013, the Foundation continued to raise funds to benefit the Charles B. Wang Community Health Center. With your support, the Health Center provided 258,000 visits for more than 47,000 patients. Many patients are low income, do not have health insurance, and are limited in English proficiency.

I want to share this letter from a Health Center patient, translated from Chinese:

“ I am one of your patients. I don't have any insurance because I work part-time. I have not seen a doctor for more than 5 years. After a friend told me about your health center, I made an appointment right away. The doctor gave me a very careful examination. He told me how to take better care of myself. He gave me some free medicine because my blood pressure was high. A social worker then talked to me about my financial situation. She said not to worry about health insurance. The health center will help me. I feel very relieved. You have the best doctor and best social worker. ”

The story shows how the Health Center is making a difference in people's lives. Each and every day, the dedicated staff work together to help patients attain their highest level of health, regardless of the patient's ability to pay. The Foundation is proud to partner with the Health Center to make sure that everyone who needs health care can get it, and the care they receive is high quality.

Your donations also support the Dickson Hee and Dr. Thomas Tam scholarships. These scholarships provide career development and learning opportunities to the Health Center's frontline health care workers and to youth in the community.

Thank you for investing in the Chinatown Health Clinic Foundation and your belief that everyone has the right to good health care.

Sincerely,

Raymond Fong, MD
President

2013 Dickson Hee & Dr. Thomas Tam Scholarships

The Dickson Hee Scholarship is in memory of Dickson Hee, former chair of the Charles B. Wang Community Health Center board of directors. The scholarship provides career development opportunities for Health Center employees who are at the front lines of delivering care to patients. Applicants are eligible for up to $1,000 to pursue education and training activities that will help them improve their job skills, and advance in their careers. The 2013 recipients were:

- Pei Ran Huang, custodian, Borough of Manhattan Community College, AS in Engineering Science
- Joey Lee, Internal Medicine Department medical assistant, New York College of Technology, Nursing
- Qiong Yang Zhang, Women's Health Department registered nurse, SUNY Delhi, BSN in Nursing

The Dr. Thomas Tam Scholarship is in memory of Dr. Thomas Tam, who was a co-founder of the Chinatown Health Clinic and first director for Project AHEAD, a college internship program for students interested in health careers. Awards of $500 are made to high school students who demonstrate leadership and interest in community service. The 2013 recipients were:

- Yue Chen, Lower East Side Preparatory School
- Alicia Devalencia, Stuyvesant High School
- Karen Li, New Explorations into Science, Technology + Math High School
- Patrick Yang, Brooklyn Technical High School
- Wanting Ye, St. Edmund Preparatory High School
